▼ INTRO & CONSENT

Intro

Understanding public opinion about cyberattacks

Participation is completely voluntary. If you agree to participate, you can always change your mind and withdraw. There are no negative consequences, whatever you decide.

What is the purpose of this study?

The primary objective of this proposed research project is to gain a comprehensive understanding of the general public's opinions, concerns, and attitudes regarding cyber threats, as well as develop strategies to prevent such victimization.

What will I do and how long will it take?

If you agree to take part in this research, you will be asked to complete an online survey which will take about 15 minutes of your time. You will be asked to provide demographic data including age, gender, race/ethnicity, education level, marital status, and income. With any type of research, there is always the potential for stress or discomfort. To minimize these risks, you are free to skip any questions and can stop your participation at any time. To minimize the risk of disclosure, the data will be collected anonymously. We suggest that you take the survey in a private setting. There are no direct benefits for participating. The information that you give us through the survey will be recorded in an anonymous form. Only the researchers will have access to the raw data. In any reports, subsequent publications, or presentations, only aggregate (combined) data will be used, which does not include individual identifying characteristics. Any individual identifying information will be omitted before the data is analyzed. Your participation in this project is strictly voluntary. Choosing to refuse or discontinue the survey will have no negative consequences. You can skip any questions you do not want to answer and can stop your participation at any time by closing out the survey. Any information provided by you up to the any time by closing out the survey. Any information provided by you, up to the point when you choose to discontinue your participation, will be saved and could be used in any subsequent reports, publications, or presentations.

Could being in this research hurt me?

There is a risk that your online data could be intercepted. This is a risk you experience any time you provide information online. We're using a secure system to collect this data, but we can't completely eliminate this risk. However, all data collected is anonymous. Will being in this research help me in any way? There are no direct benefits.

RANSOMWARE

The following questions ask you about ransomware.

Please read the following description and answer the next few questions:

Keith arrived at his office on a typical Monday morning. As part of his role in the finance department, he started his day by checking emails. Among his inbox, he noticed an email marked as URGENT from a supplier, containing an invoice attachment with the subject line: "Payment Reminder: Final Notice." Trusting that the email was legitimate, Keith opened the attachment. Nothing seemed to happen initially, but within minutes, his computer screen went black and then displayed a bright red message: "Your files have been encrypted!" "All your important documents, photos, videos, and databases have been locked. To regain access, you must pay 2 Bitcoin (approximately $100,000) within 72 hours. Failure to do so will result in permanent data loss or public release of sensitive files." Keith panicked and attempted to access his files, but everything was inaccessible. Word documents, spreadsheets, and even shared network folders were encrypted with strange extensions he had never seen before.

DDOS

Please read the following description and answer the next few questions.

A group of hackers launches a Distributed Denial of Service (DDoS) attack against a prominent e-commerce platform. The attackers, hidden behind a web of anonymizing technologies, strategically deploy a network of compromised computers, forming a botnet. As the clock ticks, they unleash a massive influx of traffic, overwhelming the targeted server infrastructure with an unprecedented volume of requests. The e-commerce platform, unsuspecting and unprepared for the onslaught, experiences severe disruption. Legitimate users find themselves unable to access the site, facing persistent timeouts and errors. The attackers exploit vulnerabilities in the platform's defenses, causing chaos, financial losses, and reputational damage.

CRYPTOCURRENCY FRAUD

The following questions ask you about a cryptocurrency fraud.

Q631

Please read the following description and answer the next few questions.

John is an enthusiastic cryptocurrency investor who recently started exploring new platforms for trading. He receives an email from what appears to be a reputable cryptocurrency exchange, "CryptoTradePro," offering an exclusive promotion: "Sign up today and receive a bonus of $500 in Bitcoin!" The email includes a professional-looking logo, realistic graphics, and a link to the website. John clicks the link and is directed to a site that looks identical to the real CryptoTradePro website. He creates an account and deposits $2,000 worth of Ethereum to take advantage of the bonus. Shortly after, he notices the funds have disappeared from his account, and attempts to contact customer support go unanswered. They used the fraudulent platform to collect login credentials and steal cryptocurrencies from unsuspecting users.
